Salzburg, Austria Hometown Activities - Restrictions turned out to be a Blessing

Barbara Grabner August 30, 2020

Salzburg/Austria. Returning from the World Summit 2020 in Korea, I quickly made appointments for a lecture tour in summer. But due to COVID-restrictions all were cancelled and I pondered what I could do instead. Moreover, my scheduled lectures in a health spa south of Salzburg were cancelled due to safety regulations. To top that, the owner of the local Farming Museum told me that she will not serve as a host anymore since aged 78 she needs more rest. The Farming Museum had been the site of a dozen events which I organized since 2014.

But the unhappy situation turned out to be a blessing. I have guests who attended already up to 10 lectures. It was time to teach them the Divine Principle in detail. How to start, what to teach them? I decided to make my house a study centre! End of June just before leaving Bratislava I had a clear plan and sent out invitations. Within six weeks I held three lectures in my home and one in an office building at the outskirts of my village. The office owner liked the previous lectures so much that she became the host.

The contents of my first two lectures were based on the booklet Circles of Angels by Nora Spurgin. I included also contents from other books as well as my personal encounters. Every guest received the booklet to include angels in their daily life. The same lecture was held a few days later on our terrace overlooking the surrounding majestic mountains. After the lecture I blessed three people in our living room in front of our altar, which was an uplifting experience.

If there is a team who helps you to prepare events it is so much easier! But I had to do everything myself – finding and collecting contents, selecting dates and locations, outreach to bring guests, preparing refreshments, writing and distributing study material, etc. All these things need good management skills and much self-discipline. The task was double challenging because my husband Milos stayed most of the time in Bratislava due to construction works at our Peace Embassy.

The next lecture The Magic of Biblical Numbers attracted 12 guests. I explained the numbers from 1 to 40 according to the Divine Principle including the growth stages and the four-position-foundation. This lecture was a big challenge but all went well. One neighbour was enthralled and sighed "Oh my, I will not be able to sleep for hours this night". The third lecture True Values for Families was taught to 11 guests. Earlier I planned to give advanced guests the book True Family Values. I changed my mind and decided to make a series about selected sections. Most of my guests consider themselves to be good believers; my lecture challenged them to reconsider their position. After almost four hours I finished the meeting because I became exhausted. Each guest received the 7-pages manuscript for home study. One lady repented the next day her aggressive questioning and said, that she definitely will make God the Number One in her life. One lady who is a devout Catholic told me, "This is exactly how we were told in the past, the same values!" She promised to come next time at all costs.

There is no church centre in Salzburg city; the few members cannot help me much because of health issues or other obligations. But my prayers were heard and one lady from Salzburg who had attended my book presentation (Cain's Children) last November opened her health centre located in the heart of Salzburg; the rooms are filled with a high atmosphere. In August I gave two lectures there. The first was Inherited Destiny. Our Ancestors and Us; the second had the title Cain's Children. The long Way towards Reconciliation. Despite growing pandemic restrictions almost 20 people came to each lecture. Now my guests bring also guests which is a great relief.