It is not about me, but the happiness of the other. Married people enjoy better mental and physical health and can expect a longer life than those without such commitment. Yet mutual compatibility and traditional man-woman roles may not be sufficient given today's global maelstrom of ideas; many choose to stay single, addicted to porn or short-term relationships.

Enter a commitment to intentional and mutual growth to allow a couple's respect and trust to evolve into eternal love. Kindly join our panel of husbands to explore how they support their talented and successful wives.

Sponsored by the International Association of Academicians for Peace of Universal Peace Federation (IAAP)
