To highlight the UN's World Environment Day, celebrated this month on June 5, IMAP presents an educational webinar supported by the Hyo Jeong International Foundation for Environmental Peace (HJIFEP) which envisions a world where human beings live as one global family, based on interdependence, mutual prosperity, and universal values, relating harmoniously to the natural world as originally intended by the Creator. HJIFEP looks for solutions through findings from both conventional science and frontier science, stretching from a materialist to a post-materialist worldview.

Join us to hear from four passionate environmental activists who share their innovative ideas and actions to foster environmental peace.

Sponsored by the International Media Association for Peace of Universal Peace Federation
