

The Reality Of The Battle Between Fallen Nature And Original Nature

The big war right now isn't between Russia and Ukraine, or Israel and Palestine. It isn't even between the Democrats and Republicans. The resolution of conflict will not come about when Israel occupies Gaza, or Russia and Trump (I can't call it the US) negotiate peace in Ukraine, or even when all the Republicans turn into granola eating tree huggers, or when all Democrats start buying guns, eating steak and cussing immigrants. Or even if all blue states curl up and die, or all red states give up gas powered cars.

The real battle is between fallen nature and original nature, the first right there waiting to be ignited, the other hidden deep inside of us. The problem isn't the left or the right, it's whether they're embracing the side that works for the sake of the other, or they're blaming the other for all the world's evils.

That is where the battle is, and it's raging inside of you and me right now. Fallen nature can take anything, any beautiful thing, place, relationship, ideology, country - and turn it ugly, mean and petty, something people want to get away from. Original nature can take any of the same things and make it beautiful, uplifting and harmonious, something people want to be around.

By nature, growing up without harmony, we are contradictory. One side of us wants to dominate by force, judge everyone, while the other side hates anyone doing that. One side of us can dish it out, the other part of us can't take it. Unfortunately, we're talking about two sides of the same being. You can't amputate one, it's been tried. Doesn't work.

True love can melt both sides and get them working together.

This is why only original nature can create anything peaceful.

So how do you boost your original nature? Here's how: read the Divine Principle, which explains the essence of God and humankind. Then receive the Blessing. It's not somebody waving incense and chanting. It's a real cleansing, spiritually and physically, that frees your original nature to come out. How much and how fast it grows, that's up to you. There's no fairy godmothers waving wands here.

People centered on original nature can take the most screwed up system and make it work well for all. People fueled by fallen nature can take a perfect setup and turn it into a rip off festival.

The way to restore the environment, spiritually and physically, is to keep creating families with original nature. More and more and more. The more original nature this world has, the better. The more solutions we're going to find to all the problems, and also be able to act on them. We don't need to get bogged down in the endless details. We just need to be acting on our original nature.
