For 1st Generation Couples

Debbie has a passion for helping people build loving and lasting marriages. She and her husband, Rob, a retired astrophysicist, have been happily married for over 43 years. She feels very lucky to have experienced the tremendous blessings of a loving, happy marriage for many years. But she also understands the pain that couples feel when their marriages are failing, as well as the suffering their children experience, having grown up in a broken home. Debbie is a Licensed Professional Counselor and has spent many years helping couples heal their relationships and achieve the marriage they have always dreamed of.

Good Genes Are Nice, But Joy Is Better

by Myrna Lapres

What keeps us happy and healthy as we go through life? Is it wealth, fame, travel, or good health? In 1938, a group of scientists began tracking the health of 268 Harvard sophomores in 1938 during the Great Depression. They hoped the longitudinal study would reveal clues to leading healthy and happy lives. They got more than they wanted. After following the surviving Crimson men for nearly 80 years as part of the Harvard Study of Adult Development, one of the world’s longest studies of adult life, researchers have collected a cornucopia of data on their physical and mental health.
