"Experiencing Spirituality - Finding Meaning Through Storytelling" by Ernest Kurtz and Katherine Ketcham is probably my all-time favorite book.

It's a quest into the essence of our human condition as it relates to our innermost resemblance and connection with our Heavenly Father. And it does it in a most refreshing, honest, and approachable way.

Peppered with stories (which are our most direct paths to conveying truths), it allows the reader to skip through chapters (segments) of interest.

An incredibly deep, yet easily approachable and entertaining way to give thought to our essential self, and it reflects upon our foundation in the community.
