First Victory Over Communism Asian Rally January 21, 1970, Seoul Citizen's Hall

The first Victory Over Communism Asian Rally was held in the afternoon of January 21, 1970, at the Seoul Citizen's Hall. Hosted by the International Federation for Victory Over Communism, this rally was held with success through the participation of more than six thousand anti-communist leaders from five different nations. The main address was delivered by Vietnam War veterans Shin Jo Kim and Ik Poong Kim. Father emphasized the importance of gaining victory over communism, saying that this Asian rally was a ceremony to usher in the 1970s. (Courtesy of the History Compilation Committee)

The First Unification Principle Seminar Held in the Soviet Union
January 24, 1990, Moscow

On January 24, 1991, a unification principle seminar was held for the first time in Moscow. Under the theme "The Way to Harmony between Nations and World Peace," the seminar for more than four hundred youths and students continued until January 29. Earlier, in July 1990, following True Parents' recommendations, we held international leadership conferences for invited students on a number of occasions in New York, Washington DC and other locations in the United States.
