It has been one week since True Mother was detained at the Seoul Detention Center. During this time, some reports and stories may have caused confusion and unrest among our members. Now, more than ever, it is essential that we uphold the absolute standard of our Heavenly Parent and True Parents and hold on firmly to each another, unshaken. We offer our deepest and heartfelt gratitude to all members who have supported with unwavering hearts until today.

Young people standing by True Mother with pure filial hearts

In the early hours of Tuesday morning (September 23), when the decision for True Mother's detention was announced, our youth pastors were the first to respond. Walking the public path under Mother's love and blessing, since Monday (September 22), they have been undertaking demanding tasks without hesitation, remaining steadfastly by True Mother's side throughout every step of her journey. Having fervently prayed for the warrant to be dismissed so that she could return to Chung Pyung, the news of her detention struck them with deep sorrow. With heavy hearts, they made their way to Chung Pyung, seeking guidance on how best to proceed.

During this sudden situation, the two Inheritors of Heaven's Love and Blessing were the first to offer comfort to the young people's hearts. The next day, they talked with representatives of the youth leaders, deeply understanding their love and devotion for True Mother. The youth pastors gained strength from this honest conversation and returned to the Seoul Detention Center. Instead of protesting, they turned it into a place of prayer where members' hearts could be gathered and lifted up to Heaven. From that day, they took turns keeping vigil, keeping the flame of prayer alive.

Later, a special prayer gathering drew more than 500 young people from across the country, including its southernmost provinces. Contrary to some misunderstandings, our young members are enduring these hardships not out of political calculation or mistrust, but with a single, burning heart as True Mother's children, devoted solely to loving and protecting her. Each and every one of their actions is born from pure filial piety towards their Parents, transcending the outside opinions and conflicting judgments of others. In our community, their pure hearts have touched a chord and brought hope: we, the members, are sending our appreciation and deep respect for their dedication and efforts.

United through our interactions and harmony

Since Tuesday (September 23), many members, including district church leaders and heads of various organizations representing the Family Federation in Korea have expressed, in various ways, their concern for True Mother and their hope that we may wisely overcome this trial. The Inheritors of Heaven's Love and Blessing, along with the True Family Four-Position Foundation, met directly with these leaders, listened carefully to their words, cleared up misunderstandings, and shared True Mother's true intentions with them.

The role of former presidents of our Family Federation was particularly important throughout this process. They engaged in meaningful discussions with the Inheritors and members of the Four Position Foundation about challenges currently faced and about the way forward, reaching a consensus to unite and work together actively. Thanks to their initiative, on the 27th, a valuable roundtable was held to gather perspectives from various sectors - including National Messiahs, senior pastors, the Heewon student association and Blessing group leaders. Moving ahead, the former FFWPU presidents have pledged to serve as bridges of communication, relaying the diverse voices from the field to the council of representatives. Seeing so many members step forward despite their busy schedules, with a proactive desire to protect True Mother has brought us all great inspiration and hope.

From Anxiety to Trust

Even in this challenging time, when everyone is going forward together with one heart and shared wisdom, it is regrettable that differing opinions and unverified stories have sown seeds of anxiety and confusion among our members. In moments of trial, our hearts are easily shaken, and even small cracks can threaten the unity of the entire community. It is precisely in such times, however, that we must not be swayed by emotional turbulence or unverified reports. Instead, we must reaffirm in our hearts the absolute standard that forms the foundation of the providence and strengthen the following guiding principles with unwavering resolve:

First, True Parents are leading today's providence in complete unity centered on the will of our Heavenly Parent. They are our joint central figures guiding the providence with one heart and purpose. Therefore, to separate one from the other or to impose a hierarchical order between them from a human perspective is to misunderstand the very essence of True Parents. Such a view undermines the integrity of the truth and can cause unnecessary confusion within the community. That is why we must stand firmly upon the absolute standard of unity that True Parents embody. This is the very center of our faith that will allow us to overcome the current turmoil.

Second, we have always striven to attend True Parents - the embodiment of the Word - as if they were life itself, and we have striven toward the realization of Cheon Il Guk. The Word is not merely a collection of letters recorded in books, but a living truth that breathes and unfolds with the progress of the providence. Because True Parents are the embodiment of that living Word, it is through them that we have responded to the challenges of our time, following the ever-deepening and expanding revelation of Heaven's Will. Our faith is not anchored in the past - it is alive in the present, holding fast to the life-giving words of True Parents, who guide us at this very moment.

The Inheritors of Heaven's Love and Blessing have emphasized the importance of embracing even those with differing views as we move forward together. They cautioned that thoughts such as "Only I truly understand True Parents" or "Only I truly love the Family Federation" can become expressions of pride that bring pain to our community. Now is not the time for criticism, but a time to compensate for each other's shortcomings, and to unite our hearts.

Dear beloved members,

We are all enduring a time of sorrow and hardship. Yet even in the midst of these challenges, we continue to walk the path of mature faith - practicing True Parents' words: "Forgive, love, unite." We are transforming anger into love and conflict into harmony.

To all members who willingly join us on this journey, we offer our deepest respect and heartfelt gratitude. We firmly believe that on this foundation of united filial hearts, Heaven will surely work new miracles.
