

12th annual Blessed Culture and Sports Festival takes place August 10-14, 2016

Michael Balcomb
August 2, 2016

The twelfth annual Blessed Culture and Sports Festival (BCSF) is scheduled to take place from August 10-14, 2016!

This five-day summer festival of sports, music, arts and fellowship is the much-anticipated event of the year at Unification Theological Seminary (UTS) in Barrytown, New York. BCSF strives to create a hub for Unificationists and their friends to connect and express their passions through sports, culture, and faith. BCSF has something for everybody, including competitive frisbee, basketball, volleyball, and soccer tournaments, various intramural sports, a League of Legends tournament, an Artists' Village where artists and craftsmen in our community will sell their work, a film festival, a battle of the bands, and a Family Day on Sunday, specifically for families with young children.

To register, volunteer, donate, sign up as a vendor, and more, visit BCSFUSA.com.

General admission, for those who plan to attend for the full five days, is $80 until August 5, and $90 if paying at the door.

Part-time admission should be used for those registering for 3 days or less. The event fee $23.50 per day when registering online, and $25 per day at the door.

Both options include access as a spectator to all sporting events, access to all evening programs, and the ability to participate in all intramural sports.

We are also accepting donations, as BCSF production costs come to around $40,000 per event. All registration fees and donations go toward covering those costs. Any questions can be directed to infobcsf@gmail.com.

After the festival, there will be a Level 2 Blessing Workshop at UTS from August 14-16, 2016.