December 13, 2023

The next workshop for young adults has been announced. See more information below...

"It's a vision; Companions of Faith who are also Champions of Faith. To keep clear. To keep the faith. To keep investing.

Faith is a fight. A never-ending wrestle. It's a battle that can be won step by step, and it's a battle that is better fought together. We want to dive deeper into our Unificationist spirituality and make room for God to be a greater part of our lives. We want to offer the time on the workshop together for the sake of emerging stronger and brighter for the fight we will face in 2024.

Let's commit to contributing towards an experience which can help us progress and protect our spirit. We want to create a workshop with the clear aim to mature our bonds as companions of faith, and re-affirm our identity as Blessed Children.

True Father's words:

"We need companions in our life of faith. People without companions are lonely people. Those who have companions can support and protect each other. They can find ways to overcome the challenges that arise in their life. Those with no companions have to resolve by themselves any problems that crop up. But this is a truly challenging task; problems assail us from every direction and we become unable to make it on our own."

"The battle between David and Goliath was not just a personal battle, but a showdown for the universe and God. The true beauty of that confrontation was that David stood as the champion of the godly forces and was determined to die for the cause. That was David's greatest opportunity to show his true loyalty and service to God, and in doing so he could find his own fulfillment. What happened? By winning that battle and fulfilling God's will, David was totally united with God and the people."

"There is no time to rest and certainly no time to weep and be despairing. We have only one road to go - the road of determination and marching forward. Why is that? It is because we are the champions who must liberate God through unification. From that point of liberation, we will be able to take true dominion over the creation. From that point forward, the Kingdom of God earth shall become a reality. I know that to my bones. That is the goal toward which I am marching today."
