SCHEDULE of SESSIONS

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18 (10-11 AM) Korean-American Alliance Post-Election Scenarios

Sponsor: International Association of Parliamentarians for Peace (IAPP)

Overview: Regardless of who sits in the White House, we're looking at possibly another four years of divided Korean Peninsula. What should be U.S. policy toward North Korea, and what is China likely to do to further its agenda in relation to Korea and the U.S?

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18 (2-3:30 PM)
Possibilities for Business and Economic Development in Korean Reunification

Sponsor: International Association for Peace & Economic Development (IAED)

Overview: The development of free-market business between the U.S., North, and South Korea will require a special breed of entrepreneur and diplomat and fortunate timing. In what is as much a political arena as a complicated business environment, how do we get to win-win for a country divided for 70 years?

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19 (10 – 11:30 AM) Role of Media in Korean Reunification

Sponsor: International Media Association for Peace (IMAP)

Overview: What the mass communication media chooses to cover, and how, shapes people's opinions, the focus of their concerns, and the public agenda of issues. While maintaining ethical balance, what legitimate roles can journalists play in opening the doors to human rights, freedom of conscience, free markets, and greater flow of information to and from North Korea – and also, protecting from erosion, the free flow of ideas in South Korea.
