UPF's IMAP in Korea: Communication Media in the Asia Pacific today

Hans Moyer February 22, 2022

IMAP in Korea: Communication Media in the Asia Pacific

Tuesday, February 22 from 2 PM to 3 PM EST

Key social spheres of politics, business, religion and academia move public opinion in a definite direction. What links all of them together are the mass communication media – from television networks to bloggers. Only the media is powerful enough to rival the governmental branches of Executive, Legislative and Judicial, and is often called the "Fourth Estate."

On the global scale, there is a general lack of awareness of the importance of the reunification of North and South Korea, the implications for the rest of the world, how the other nations can help bring it about and why they should be interested in doing so. UPF's International Media Association for Peace recently joined a global conference in South Korea where they examined their unique position.

Register here now: us-upf-org.zoom,us/meeting/register/tZIsd- 2upjgqH9GoMPMSkPjI1JTu8OpJKvoP

Or watch livestream: us.upf,org/live

Tuesday, February 22 from 11 to 12 PM PST

Very respectfully,

Hans Moyer

IMAP Coordinator North America Executive Director UPF-PA hmoyer@us.upf,org us.upf,org/

A Global Network of Peacebuilders Kodiak Marine Charters

IMAP IN KOREA: COMMUNICATION MEDIA IN THE ASIA PACIFIC

Tuesday, February 22, 2022: 2 PM EST

Key societal institutions in politics, business, religion and academia move public opinion in a definite direction. What links all of them together are the mass communication media – from television networks to bloggers. Only the media is powerful enough to rival the governmental branches of Executive, Legislative and Judicial, and is often called the "Fourth Estate." On the global scale, there is a general lack of awareness of the importance of the reunification of North and South Korea, the implications for the rest of the world, how the other nations can help bring it about and why they should be interested in doing so. UPF's International Media Association for Peace recently joined a global conference in South Korea where they examined their unique position.

LIVE STREAM

Zoom Registration

Sponored by the International Media Association for Peace of Universal Peace Federation

@UPFUSA

US.UPF.ORG/LIVE

You Tube

@UPFUSA

