

What kind of feelings does God have in his heart observing human suffering?

Hak Ja Han

May 29, 2023

Yeosu Ocean Bella Vista Hall

Special Gathering Held by True Parents of Heaven, Earth and Humankind for the National Restoration: Resolution and Sending-off Ceremony for Public Officials from Sub-region 3 and 4

Heavenly Parent, the Creator, created all things in His image and created man and woman who would become the ancestors of humankind and He granted them a period of growth, and eagerly awaited the day they would both mature in anticipation of the day they would reach perfection. To this end, He gave them the commandment: not to partake of the forbidden fruit. However, the individuals ordained to be our human forebears could not uphold this sacred decree, which led to their expulsion from Eden.

The world of today stands estranged from the Creator. As we traverse the extensive span of six millennia, we haven't been able to dream of a peaceful world, not even for the briefest of moments. Human history is replete with endurance stories against wars, conflicts, diseases, and unbearable afflictions.

What kind of feeling might God have in his heart observing this enduring human suffering?

Heavenly Parent is omniscient and omnipotent. His beginning and end are invariably the same, thus He will without fail, accomplish what He has started. Consequently, the Heavenly Parent had no choice but to undertake the arduous task of executing the providential history of salvation, a path of restoration through indemnity. The reason Heavenly Parent chose the Israelites from the myriad of humanity to carry out the providence of salvation was to restore the lineage that God could directly relate to, as He originally dreamt.

Thus, after an immense passage of time, He restored that lineage through Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Then it became feasible to advance from the individual, tribal, national, and racial stages -- or in other words, after 4,000 years -- the Heavenly Parent sent His only begotten Son, Jesus Christ, whom He could call "my beloved son" to the world.

Indeed, He sent the Messiah, but Mary, who gave birth to him, the family of Zechariah, Judaism, and the Israelite nation failed to recognize Him. This collective failure led to Jesus' crucifixion, but before His ultimate sacrifice, He promised to return.

God is to inevitably bring to fruition what has been set in motion. The Heavenly Parent undertook extensive preparations to bring forth the birth of the only begotten daughter, who must be born without relation to the fallen world, without connection to the fall. In selecting a nation for the birth of this only begotten daughter, the Heavenly Parent chose and prepared the Han people (the Korean people).

Finally, in 1943, the only begotten daughter was born; -- a providential event that took place after 400 years. However, with the end of World War II, Korea was split into North and South, demarcated by democracy and communism.

What was Jesus' desire? It is the fulfillment of the Heavenly Parent's dream by occupying the seat of True Parents -- the position God so longed for. The mission of the returning Messiah, in other words, is to meet the only begotten daughter chosen by the Heavenly Parent.

Since God blessed me and birthed me as the only begotten daughter, I vowed, 'I shall undoubtedly fulfill the Heavenly Parent's dream in my lifetime.' God could no longer wait and asked me inaugurate Foundation Day and I proclaimed Cheon Il Guk.

The declaration was not just a mere proclamation; it was a commitment to demonstrate to humanity the restoration of seven nations and seven denominations and one continent to make me proclaim the establishment of Cheon Il Guk.

On that basis, the Cheon Won Gung Cheon Il Sanctum was dedicated as a place to receive and serve God.

The True Parents are the only ones who teach the essence of God, His longing, His dream, and fulfill it. We must understand how much the Heavenly Parent had to endure, wait, and grieve over the 6,000 years of human history.

In front of the Heavenly Parent's paternal heart which encompasses humanity with love, and in front of the True Parents, everyone should repent and be reborn. Set an example, as blessed families. And to do this, you must witness. How can we call a place where national restoration hasn't been accomplished the Heavenly Parent's homeland? The journey towards a heavenly unified Korea cannot wait any longer.

All need to bear in mind, it is one of the most pressing issues to be resolved while the True Parent, the only begotten daughter, is on earth.

I hope that each one of you become filial sons and daughters, loyal people who can take pride in the Heavenly Parent and the True Parents with all your heart.